Last updated: May 2024

This Cookie Notice describes how Equifax Limited ("Equifax," "we," "us," and "our") uses cookies and similar technologies on the Equifax.co.uk website, Equifax Online Help and the Equifax Workforce Solutions website (the "Website"). This is for a few reasons like to provide essential services, make sure the site functions as it should, help us analyse and understand how you use it, personalise your experience and show you adverts relevant to you and your interests on the Website and on third party platforms.

The MyEquifax and Website Privacy Notice explains how we collect and use your information more generally when you visit the Website, create an account with us or otherwise interact with us. This Cookie Notice explains specifically how we use cookies and similar technologies and your choices regarding their use.

CONTENT OF THIS COOKIE NOTICE:

1. What are cookies and similar technologies?
2. Who can drop cookies on my device?
3. What types of cookies do we use and why?
4. Managing cookies
5. The cookies we use

1. WHAT ARE COOKIES AND SIMILAR TECHNOLOGIES?

Cookies are small text files saved to your device (computer, smartphone, tablet or any other device from which you access the internet) when you visit a website. These files do not contain personal data but they do contain an identifier that allows website owners to associate personal data with a particular device. With your permission where required, cookies can collect, record and share information about you and/or your device.

In addition to cookies, we also use similar technologies, such as web beacons (also called pixel tags or clear gifs). For ease, we use the term cookies to refer to both technical cookies and similar technologies.

Cookies can do lots of different jobs, such as remembering your language preferences and login details for future visits, and generally improving your user experience. They can also help to ensure that adverts you see online are more relevant to you.

You can find more information about cookies at All About Cookies and Your Online Choices. You can watch a video about cookies here.

2. WHO CAN DROP COOKIES ON MY DEVICE?

At Equifax we use 'first-party' and 'third-party' cookies:

- First-party cookies are placed on your device by Equifax. We use first-party cookies to, for example, enable the Website to function correctly and better understand your use of the Website.
 - Third-party cookies are placed on your device by our selected partners and service providers. Equifax uses third-party cookies to, for example, measure visits to the Website, and show you relevant advertisements.

3. WHAT TYPES OF COOKIES DO WE USE AND WHY?

When you visit the Website, strictly necessary cookies will be set on your device. Other non-essential cookies (described below) will also be set on your device if you choose to accept them.

| Cookie type | What do they do |
|---------------------------|--|
| Strictly necessary | These cookies are essential to enable you to move around the Website and use its features, such as accessing secure areas of the Website. Without these cookies certain services cannot be provided. They also allow the Website to remember choices you make, such as your username, language or the region you're in. The information these cookies collect may be anonymised and they cannot track your browsing activity on other websites. These cookies can't be disabled. |
| Performance and analytics | These cookies are used for analytics purposes and to help us improve the Website for our users. For example, they might help us understand which pages visitors go to most often and where error messages are displayed. These cookies typically collect and process information at an aggregated and often anonymous level. You can choose against these cookies being set on your device. |
| Advertising and targeting | These cookies are used to make marketing messages more relevant to you and to deliver advertising to you on third party platforms. They perform functions like: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• preventing the same advertisement from continuously reappearing; |

- | | |
|--|--|
| | <ul style="list-style-type: none">• ensuring that advertisements are properly displayed;• selecting advertisements that are based on your interests; and• measuring the number of advertisements displayed and their performance, such as how many times you clicked on a given advertisement. |
|--|--|

These are usually third-party cookies (as described above). Disabling these cookies won't reduce the number of promotions you see but will mean they are less personalised. You can choose against these cookies being set on your device.

4. MANAGING COOKIES

Strictly necessary cookies will be set automatically when you visit the Website. Non-essential cookies, such as performance and analytics, and advertising and targeting cookies, will only be set if you choose to accept them. Users can select which non-essential cookies are set via the cookie banner pop-up shown when a device first visits the Website. We use both "session cookies", which expire when you close your browser, and "persistent cookies", which expire after a set period of time (even if you close your browser).

You can update your cookie settings at any time via Equifax's cookie preference centre here. You can also manage and delete cookies by changing your internet browser settings, although this may prevent the Website from working properly. Browser instructions have been provided below or you can visit All About Cookies for more information.

Desktop browser instructions:
